As part of our Peace Train series, reporter John Longhurst asked Winnipeggers Gordon and Lori Matties, Val Falk, and Agnes Hubert what peace means to them, and how Canada can contribute to a more just world.

Gordon Matties, who boarded the train in Vancouver, envisions “a future without war; a future of peace with justice for all of creation.”

Lori Matties shared, “More than ever, I believe we are all called to love our neighbours, and the only way to get rid of our enemies... See more

As multiple conflicts rage across the world, it can be easy to give in to feelings of hopelessness about humanity's prospects for a peaceful and prosperous future. The dream of true and lasting world peace is universal, yet elusive. What will it take for us to finally set aside our petty differences and historical grievances to find a common vision for humanity? Does peace simply entail the absence of war, or does it incorporate freedom from all forms of injustice and oppression?

Many philosophers and spiritual leaders have posited that we cannot achieve global peace and unity until we realize peace within ourselves – an intriguing perspective inviting new and creative interpretations. Perhaps, peace need not be more complicated or grandiose than a walk amongst the wildflowers or a late-summer sunrise.

In the 2025 Multifaith Calendar - Pathways to Peace, we invited artists to reflect deeply on these perennial questions and to channel their visions of peace into artwork that soothes the spirit, uplifts the soul, inspires others to action, and ultimately offers solace to a divided world. We hope you find that the included art evokes a sense of both comfort and optimism.

What's New for 2025: Over the years, the Multifaith Calendar has been privileged to moons and moon cycles according to different Indigenous Peoples, including Nisga'a (northwestern BC) and Ojibwa (eastern BC to western Quebec and in the upper and mid-west in the US), Cree (across western and central Canada and Quebec as well as in Montana), and Coast Salish (Pacific Northwest). This year, the 2025 Multifaith Calendar again features moons and months as observed by the Mi'kmaq First Nations.

The Mi'kmaq are a First Nation of Indigenous people whose territory—called Mi'kma'ki—spans the maritime provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and parts of Newfoundland and Quebec. The Mi'kmaq have lived there for 11,000 years and their language is one of the Eastern Algonquian family of languages. The Mi'kmaw Moons names denote the passage of time by reflecting activities in the natural world through the seasons.

During the current Canada Post labour dispute, delivery is a challenge for individual copies of the Multifaith Calendar. Alternatively, individual copies are available for purchase at the Canadian Human Rights Museum BOUTIQUE, McNALLY-ROBINSON BOOKS and Canadian Mennonite University's COMMON WORD bookstore.

Manitoba Multifaith Council acknowledges that we gather on Treaty One Land, in the traditional territory of the Anishinaabeg, Cree, Oji-Cree, Dakota peoples, and the homeland of the Métis Nation.

We acknowledge the harms and mistakes of the past, and we dedicate ourselves to move forward in partnership with Indigenous communities in a spirit of reconciliation and collaboration.

May we live with respect on this land, and live in peace and friendship with its peoples.

We rely on word of mouth referrals for much of our activities. If you enjoyed your experience with us, please tell your friends by sharing this email on your social networks or forwarding to their email address. We appreciate your support!
